PROSPECTS FOR CHEAP LIQUORS GREATLY DIMMED

Federal and State Governments Race to Exact Taxation Limit

MANY PROPOSALS MADE

Interdepartmental Committee's Plan is Virtually Discarded

By William S. Neal

(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)
WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—(INS).— Prospects for cheap liquor were greatly dimmed today as the Federal and State governments drifted toward a race to exact the limit of taxation of the newly legal industry.

The proposal of the President's interdepartmental committee for one super gallonage tax on liquor to be collected by the Federal government and divided with the States was virtually discarded as a result of the joint hearing of the Senate Finance and House Ways and Means Committees.

The committee's plan to distribute 20 per cent of a $2.60 a gallon liquor tax to the States had been indignantly attacked by Henry W. Toll of Denver, Colo., as spokesman for the interstate committee on conflicting taxation, embracing legislators and tax authorities of many States.

The counter proposal of toll for a greater division of revenues based upon population and the wet areas had been informally spurned by members of the Senate Finance and House Ways and Means Committees.

Congressional leaders on taxation agreed that Congress in all probability will insist upon levying a Federal liquor tax without reference to the States.

And with many States already levying taxes of 90c to $1.10 a gallon on liquor—a tax exclusively regarded as a Federal tax before prohibition—heavy taxation was considered certain.

Dinner, Entertainment And Meeting Interest Mothers

In spite of the inclement weather last evening, there were 124 members of the Mothers' Association, Bristol High School, who attended the annual Christmas party, in the high school auditorium.

Mrs. Maurice Roche and her committee served the following menu at seven o'clock: Roast turkey, mashed potatoes, filling, peas, cranberry sauce, rolls, butter, holiday pudding, small cakes, coffee.

Luc's cafeteria dining room was decorated by Mrs. William Borchers. Red and green candles were lighted on the tables and favors were small "Santas." As the members entered the dining room, a group of women sang "Holy Night," and all sang the "Doxology" before being seated.

Mrs. Harry Pope, president, presided at a short business session. The members were then treated to a sketch under the direction of Mrs. Chaucer Stoneback, Sr., the parts being taken by some of the members. The sketch was a burlesque on "Uncle Tom's Cabin" and Mrs. Stoneback, Sr., gave a specialty song introducing the characters of the play. Santa Claus arrived with his pack and each member received a gift.

A one-act play was given by members of the dramatic association, Bristol high school. This sketch was entitled "A Quiet Evening At Home." Myrtle Collier and Shirley Stoneback gave specialty dances. Mrs. Stoneback, Sr., entertained with a dance number.
Miss Mildred Bell was pianist. The remainder of the evening was enjoyed dancing, 124 packages, donated by the mothers, were presented to the Girl Reserves, to be used for their Christmas party for children of the borough. A large Christmas tree was also presented to the Girl Reserves.

Yearly Business Meeting Of Edgely Guild Occurs

The yearly business meeting, Edgely Branch Needlework Guild of America, was held at the home of Mrs. Thomas G. Hawkes, Tuesday afternoon. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. Walter G. Stilwell. All bills were ordered paid. The card party given last week was successful, and added the guild in its efforts to defray expenses of purchasing garments needed in the community.

Election of officers took place and the following were re-elected for the next two years: Mrs. Walter G. Stil-well, president; Mrs. Philip Ecken-roth, first vice-president; Mrs. William Smyrl, second vice-president; Mrs.
William O'Dea, secretary; Mrs. Herbert O. Banes, treasurer.

The final count of garments collected this year by the Edgely Branch totalled 1886. Of this amount garments were sent to five institutions, the greater number being kept at home to assist needy families in this community. The sewing will be resumed early in January.

SHACKLE COUPLE WHO DO NOT HAVE SHEKELS

Colored Couple Wedded Here Promise to Send Justice's Fee Later On

HAVE YET TO EARN IT

By The Stroller

These times of depression sure are trying the souls of many. Especially is this true of those who have felt the pangs of the darts hurled by that little fellow armed with a low and arrow—Dan Cupid.

This proved to be particularly true of two colored folks who hail from Philadelphia and came all the way to Bristol, that they might be united in the bonds of matrimony.

The pair visited the office of Justice of Peace James Guy, in the Municipal Building. Walking into the august presence of Justice Guy and on such a mission as the two were bound, would naturally make them more or less timid and somewhat disconcerted.
They walked with nervous step and clearing his throat two or three times the male member of the couple with some hesitancy inquired the price of a marriage license and he also wanted to know if the ceremony could be performed at once.

Now Justice Guy is always desirous of pleasing such customers and informed them what the cost of the license would be and what his fee would be for performing the ceremony.
"But I cannot marry you until the license is received from Doylestown, the county seat of Bucks County," he said.

"Oh!" exclaimed the groom-to-be.
"We wanted to get married at once."
"Let me get your license and then you can come back on Tuesday and I'll be glad to perform the ceremony," stated the marrying justice.

"How much did you say the license will cost?" again inquired the male member of the pair. When told he said: "Well, it's hardly got that much with me today, but you send for the license and I'll bring the money with me, when we come back to get married."

Realizing that a certain amount of credit business must be done by marrying justices, the same as is required in all other lines of business, Justice Guy decided to take a chance and agreed to send off for the permit.

The following day the Philadelphia pair returned as agreed and paid the money for the license.

"Now, how much did you say you would charge for marrying us?" the man again inquired. When told, he said:

"Oh! I's hardly got that much."
"You see, it is this way, Mr. Justice," spoke the man.

"A friend of ours, who has a car, agreed to bring us to Bristol this morning, to get married. He did not show up, so we done gone spent nearly all the money we had for carfare to get here. We only have a few pennies left."

"If you will marry us and give me your name and address, I'll send you the money, when we get it."
To this Justice Guy likewise agreed.
He reasoned that it would not be justice to keep this happy couple from enjoying the privileges of wedded bliss, just for the sake of a few shekels. So, he shackled them despite the lack of the shekels.

The groom took the name and address of the obliging justice and as the happy couple left, agreed to send the fee just as soon as he earned it.
He stated positively in the presence of Superintendent James L. McGee, a witness to the ceremony, that he would surely send that money.

Food Exchange To Precede Address at Club Session junction with the Travel Club meeting tomorrow afternoon. Articles of food may be left by the members at the club home, Cedar street, after 11 a. m. The lowed by the meeting at three.

Anyone interested in current events is invited to attend the club meeting tomorrow at three and hear Mrs. Hope LeBar Roberts, Philadelphia. A small charge of admission will be made for non-members. Mrs. Roberts is a most talented speaker, and her addresses eagerly looked forward to by all who

KIWANIS CLUBS HEAR INTERESTING ADDRESS ON "THE LABOR ASPECT OF THE NEW DEAL," GIVEN BY PROF. HERBERT M. DIAMOND

Speaker Presents Both Sides of Labor Problem to Audience

AN INSTRUCTIVE TALK

DOYLESTOWN, Dec. 14.—Close to 100 Kiwanians from Doylestown, Lansdale, Ambler, Chester, Quakertown, Chester Pike, Norristown, Sellersville and Old York Road clubs attended last night's meeting of the Kiwanis Club of Doylestown at the Fountain House.

Following the regular dinner meeting, Dr. Carmon Ross, Lieutenant Governor of the Southeastern Pennsylvania division of Kiwanis, conducted a leadership training conference for the officers-elect of all the clubs in the district, a custom that is followed out annually in Kiwanis throughout the country.

The objects and objectives of Kiwanis together with the programs of the various clubs for the year 1934 were discussed in detail by the new incoming presidents, past presidents, secretaries, directors and treasurers.

Kiwanis was reported to be in a very healthy state in spite of economic conditions. Clubs throughout the district show a distinct interest-pickup.
The Doylestown club during the closing 12-month period, showed a gain of three members with a membership today of forty-one. During the year there were six deletions and additions to membership.

Before the opening of the conference, Lieutenant Governor Ross was called upon to initiate two new members of the Doylestown club, Harvey K. Fisher, classification, "life under-writer—insurance," and Frank Mitch, Jr., classification, "fire insurance."

Plans for the annual Christmas party of Doylestown Kiwanis were completed. Judge Calvin S. Boyer, club president, appointed Edward O.
Steele, A. Russell Thomas, Joseph Haffer, William West and Charles Mamounis. Following out the custom of the past seven years, members of the club, accompanied by Santa Claus, will make a trip to the Tabor Home on Friday evening, December 22, where a program will be staged with the boys and girls of the home. The regular meeting of Kiwanis for next week will be on Friday night, Dec. 22, at 6.15, to be followed by the trip to Tabor Home.

The club approved a donation of $10 toward the community Christmas decoration of the 104th Regiment monument. Judge Boyer also announced that at the next meeting, plans will be completed for the annual minstrel show of the club, when a decision will be made as to what manner the receipts this year will be divided. The show dates will be selected next week.

"The Labor Aspect of the New Deal," was the subject of a very enlightening talk by Prof. Herbert M.
Diamond, of the College of Business Administration, Lehigh University, the guest speaker of the evening who was accompanied by Prof. H. A. Haring, Jr., of the same department.

GAMBLE CONCERT PARTY WILL APPEAR HERE

To Present Musical Program in the Presbyterian Church

TOMORROW EVENING

For its Christmas program last year The Travel Club presented the Ernest Gamble Concert Party. It was such a gratifying success that the Presbyterian Choir decided to give the general public an opportunity to hear these popular artists last February. The church was packed with delighted music lovers. There were folks attending from Trenton, Philadelphia, Oak Lane, Langhorne. Now the Presbyterian Men's Bible Class presents the Gambles in an entirely new, novel and colorful offering, "Musical Portraits" tomorrow evening at 8.00.

The Chinese proverb says "One picture is worth ten thousand words."
"Musical Portraits" is music in pictorial form. Each selection is given before a special scene, in costume, with action and lighting effects. An appeal is made to the eye as well as to the ear.

Mr. Gamble will as usual officiate as master of ceremonies.
The personnel consists of Verna Page, with her rare old Gagliano violin of 1736; Miss Emma Zuern, soprano of the Paramount Opera Co.

GOLD PRICE UNCHANGED

Washington, D. C., Dec. 14.—The government's gold price remained unchanged today at $34.01 per ounce. It marked the 12th consecutive business day in which no change has been made. The long period in which no advance or recession in the price has been noted tended to revive rumors that a gentlemen's agreement had been reached between the National Federal Reserve Bank, the Bank of England and the Bank of France to stabilize the price of gold close to the $34.00 figure. No confirmation of this was obtainable at the Treasury. Treasury officials have consistently declined to reveal details of the gold purchasing operations because of the speculative features involved.

Heading for Porto Rico on their way

Lindbergh hopped off from the Port of Spain at 7.55 a. m., e. s. t., today.
The Lindberghs did not definitely announce their destination at the time of their departure but it was anticipated they would either stop at San Juan, Porto Rico or circle the city in their flight. San Juan lies approximately 750 miles north of the Port of Spain.

ACCEPT INVITATION

San Juan, Porto Rico, Dec. 14.— Colonel and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh, who left the Port of Spain today, have accepted the invitation of Acting Governor Horton to remain overnight in the Governor's palace.
Expected here early this afternoon, they will occupy a suite now permanently called the "Lindbergh room." It will be Colonel Lindbergh's third visit to the island, and Mrs. Lind-bergh's second.

TWO GET LIFE TERMS

Hagerstown, Md., Dec. 14.—Two convicted murderers were under life imtence. Elmer J. Fair, 22, of Gettysburg, received life for the murder of Reuben Sollenberger, during an attempted hold-up of a gasoline station.

His 19-year-old companion, Emanuel Bingham, got 10 years on the manslaughter conviction. John F. Smith, 18, was sentenced to life for slaying

MANY ATTEND FUNERAL OF MAN MURDERED HERE

The Casket to The

Many friends and relatives of the late Frank DeMarco attended his funeral this morning which was held with high mass in St. Ann's church at 10 o'clock.

A large number of folks gathered at the humble little residence at 1012 Elm street, to pay their last respects to the man who was shot down and killed Monday evening, when he and John Princivilla became engaged in an argument over $5 which DeMarco had borrowed several months ago from Princivilla.

The front room in 135 DeMarco home was filled with folks who came to view the body. There were flora; pieces banded about the casket. The widow with her nine children, who have been left destitute by the dual tragedy, were seated nearby.

The casket was carried to the church by pall bearers selected from among the members of the Sons of Italy, of which the deceased was a member.

Burial was made in St. Mark's Cemetery.

The committee of three women—Mrs. John Graham, 441 Jefferson avenue; Mrs. Edward Bonner, 443 Jefferson avenue; and Mrs. Joseph Ferraro, 440 Jefferson avenue, are endeavoring to procure clothing needed at once by the family and have also assured those who contribute money, that such will be spent to the very best advantage.

This group of women made an appeal through the Courier yesterday and reported today that several donations had already been received and that more had been promised. "But we need quite a lot more," said a member of the group. "We have received a coat for the little girl and some suits, shoes, and stockings for some of the other children. We also have more things promised. But it takes a lot of clothing and a lot of food to keep a family of 10, nine of which are children ranging in age from two months to 13 years. Any donations will be appreciated."

Sleet-Covered Highways Make Driving Dangerous

The first sleet of great proportions this year visited this section yesterday afternoon and last evening, with cars and people sliding in all directions which they did not intend to travel.

Light hail, a fine rain and even snow were experienced throughout the afternoon and night, making highways and side-walks slippery, and covering service wires.

The borough officials ordered crews of workmen out early last evening, and clinders were placed at dangerous spots, on hills and curves. In the outlying sections similar precautions were also taken. Automobiles had difficulty in climbing even the smallest hills in the vicinity.

Rain freezing on the wind-shields made driving more hazardous, and drivers frequently were forced to halt to rid the glass of ice, in order to make visibility possible.

Boys and girls were in the height of glory, and at the first sign of freezing had sleds and skates out.

Score of 821 Secured By Mrs. F. Gallagher at Cards

The boys athletic club known as the White Elephants, held a card

Mr. and Mrs. James Hughes, Swain street. There were eight tables of awarded.

Highest scores were attained by:
Mrs. F. Gallagher, 821; Mrs. Ellis, 753; Mrs. Snyder, 742; William Thompson, 722; H. Hughes, 712.

CHRISTMAS CARDS

Christmas greetings are reaching their destination, are being opened and read. The answer to all this, or rather this is the answer to the post office department's appeal to "speed up" the Christmas mail, post early and similar exhortations to avoid coagulation of the postal service.

It is not difficult to find persons who dislike this early mailing or at least early reception of messages intended for Christmas Day or its twilight zone. To such persons the whole business seems premature and mechanical as so much of the observance of the holidays has unfortunately become.

But both a practical and sentimental reason stand on the other side of the issue. If everybody waited until the last day or two preceding Christmas to mail their cards, it would be Washington's birthday before the last mail would be delivered. The American people have gone into the exchange of Christmas cards so extensively that even under present conditions the postal service is about swamped.

And there is this additional comfort for persons who prefer to receive their greetings nearer the holiday that if the Christmas spirit is the delightful thing most persons admit it is then spreading it over a much of the calendar as possible ought to be all the more delightful. If the early mailing of cards of greeting tap the reservoir of goodwill sooner than formerly, then the world is better for it.

An entire year of the ebullition of the Christmas spirit might pale after the first month or two, but it is vigorous enough to endure a fortnight and if within that period, the world is a bit merrier, generous and considerate by the early mailing of Christmas cards, there really can not be much complaint against the practice.

BUY CHRISTMAS SEALS

The public again has the opportunity of contributing to the war or tuberculosis by purchasing Christmas seals.

The cause is one so obviously deserving that no argument should be needed to impress its importance upon the public mind. There are few persons unable to help in this great cause. The purchase of only one stamp is of assistance.

Encouraging headway is being made in the fight on tuberculosis. But victory has not been achieved. The advances being made, however, should encourage greater efforts in the future than have been made in the past. The war is being fought along a wide front. Various health and other agencies are engaged in the combat. It is the duty of the private citizen to do his or her part in financing the fight. Lack of adequate funds will prevent or delay eventual success.

The purchase of Christmas seals provides an easy way for assistance to be given those engaged in the actual work of pressing the fight.

"Minute Breakfast Planned"—headline. Time or space?

The old adage may find that it can't disguise itself merely with a new name.

A German scientist claims to have found a live flea 5,000,000 years old. But he left unanswered the question of whether he is of pure Aryan stock.

WAKE UP YOUR LIVER BILE— WITHOUT CALOMEL

And You'll Jump Out of Bed in the Morning Rarin' to Go

If you feel sour and sunk and the world looks punk, don't swallow a lot of salts, mineral water, oil, laxative candy or chewing gum and expect them to make you suddenly sweet and buoyant and full of sunshine.

For they can't do it. They only move the bowels and a mere movement doesn't get at the cause. The reason for your down-and-out feeling is your liver. It should pour out two pounds of liquid bile into your bowels daily.

If this bile is not flowing freely, your food doesn't digest. It just decays in the bowels. Gas builds up your stomach. You have a thick, bad taste and your breath is foul, skin often breaks out in pimples. Your head aches and you feel tired and out. Your whole system is poisoned.

It takes those good, old CARTER'S LITTLE LIVER PILLS to get these two pounds of bile flowing freely and make you feel "up and up." They contain wonderful, harmless, gentle vegetable extracts, amazing when it comes to making the bile flow freely. But don't ask for liver pills. Ask for Carter's Little Liver Pills. Look for the red and white label. Resent a substitute. 25c a dozen. Stores. © 1931 C. M. Co.

SYNOPSIS

Pretty, young Patricia Warren unwillingly accepts the attentions of Bill McGee, a racketeer, fearing his wrath should she refuse. One night, Bill is shot by a rival gangster while with Patricia. Patricia runs home in terror. Her stepmother, fearing a scandal, puts her out. Patricia is forced to make her living by playing professional bridge. Impressed by the girl's beauty and skill, Julian Haverholt, the bridge expert, makes her his partner. She moves to his palatial home where he introduces her as his niece. Pat is indignant until Haverholt explains he was thinking of her reputation. Patricia is secretly in love with Clark Tracy, the polo player, but Clark is engaged to Marthe March, society girl. Pat first met Clark and his fiancée when she filled in at bridge (for fifty cents an hour) at wealthy Mrs. Sycott's home. Pat was living with her stepmother at the time. Meeting Pat again at Haverholt's, Clark does not recognize her. He breaks an appointment to teach Pat to drive her new car and goes on a trip with his fiancée's family. Noting her disappointment, Haverholt questions Pat, but she denies that she loves Clark. Pat concentrates on bridge to forget. Then comes the bridge tournament sponsored by Reuben Blair. Haverholt's bitter enemy Clark is present. He is distressed by Patricia's coyness towards him. The contest is on Haverholt and Pat play with machine-like precision and perfection and are in the lead.

CHAPTER TWENTY-SIX

"It's fun," she murmured once to Julian. "It's so much fun I feel—I feel as if I simply couldn't lose."

He smiled. He had felt that way himself—so often. He understood the fever, in her blood, the burning triumph in her heart. The world was upside down for her just now, as it had long been upside down for him. To win, to win, to win, to wrest from the cards every trick they held and more—what victory in all of life could be so thrilling? Oh, Julian Haverholt knew how she felt.

"Don't," he said mildly, "don't be demoralized by your success. The cup isn't ours—not yet."

It was at one o'clock Patricia and Julian Haverholt triumphed over Mr. and Mrs. Granville Simpson, and the officials computed the total scores of the tournament evening. The Reuben Blair cup belonged to Julian Haverholt, the donor's most bitter enemy. It was not a popular victory. These players for the most part were Blair's friends and supporters. Julian liked that particular sort of unpopularity. He active outdressed himself in boasting.

Patricia could not object. She could object to nothing now. Sparkling, laughing, intoxicated with the heady wine of success, she stood in the midst of the milling group, which had awaited the final outcome. Defeated players all, bitter, resentful, jealous, smiling their sweet, false smiles, offering their meaningless, insincere congratulations. To the girl everything rang true. She loved everything tonight, even the huge, ornate, shining cup, awaiting her name and Julian's. A marvelous cup. She said so often.

"Must we leave it?" she demanded youthfully, appealing to them all. "Couldn't we have the names engraved ourselves?"

"I think it will be safe to leave it," Julian advised her dryly, eyeing the cup as if he meant to pawn it, and considered that the silver would not bring so much. He picked it up. Just then his glance fell upon the doorway. Immediately his face lit with wicked joy. "As I live and breathe," he announced it gleefully, "here comes Reuben Blair!"

There came Blair indeed, a fat, pompous little man, reluctance in his step. Reuben Blair wore an immaculate, yet old fashioned dinner jacket with a wide, black waistcoat. He carried a gold-headed cane; in his pocket was a fat, gold watch which had been owned by some Revolutionary Blair and which this last son of the ancient Virginia Blairs loved to display. He belonged to one of the first families of the South, he had been in the Social Register as long as there had been a Social Register. His own importance weighed constantly upon his mind. Since the war, he thought, the world had gone to pot. What had society come to when such upstarts as Julian Haverholt were allowed to fraternize with gentlemen? Stiffly, slowly, he advanced.

"Greetings," carolled Haverholt. "You've managed to miss an exciting evening, Reuben. I've just won your cup!"

For proof he waved the trophy in the air.

"So I heard," said the other man, coldly. "Allow me to present my congratulations."

"Are they from the heart?" inquired Haverholt with definite mockery. He added musingly, "I'm afraid, Reuben, your congratulations don't come from the heart."

"My name is Blair, if you please, sir!"

The older man's red face was quite purple.

"You really should have been here," Haverholt was saying in his drawing, superior tones. "If you had observed me and my partner carefully you might, you know, you really might have learned to play a little bridge. It wouldn't hurt you, Reuben."

"Thanks," said the other, trembling with affront, "thanks just the same. I can make out, I believe, without employing your particular brand of grand-stand bridge."

"My grand-stand bridge has proved singularly effective," Haverholt suggested thoughtfully and then said, drawing Patricia forward, "May I present my niece?"

Half a hundred people saw Blair draw back and coldly view the girl, saw him ignore her extended hand, saw her hand slowly drop.

"One Haverholt," announced Reuben Blair, "is just one more Haverholt than I care to know."

Whereupon, he squarely turned his back and left the room.

When Patricia came downstairs the following morning Haverholt was at breakfast, not in the austere formal dining room but in the cozy, comfortable breakfast nook, a pleasant place cheerful with chintz and pewter and delft. Wearing a velvet dressing gown, smoking, hunched over a newspaper, Julian Haverholt presented a picture of solid masculine comfort, a picture that made Patricia almost hesitate to interrupt.

"Want company?" she asked, coming up behind him.

"I'd love it. Sit down, Patricia. Have you had your coffee?"

"Ages ago," she told him and added in shocked tones, "Have you any idea of the hour? It's nearly noon."

"Time is nothing in my life this morning," he advised her, stretching luxuriously, looking handsome and satisfied and lazy. "Well, Patricia," he continued, as she seated herself and regarded him expectantly, "you distinguished yourself last night. You've arrived, young woman, and I'm proud of you."

SANTA'S NEW HELPER

By Catherine Curran Smith

The other night an S. O. S. Came floating through the air, 'Twas Santa at the North Pole, And he was in great despair. He simply could not concentrate, And was worried to a frazzle— All about that big blue eagle, And the letters, N. R. A.

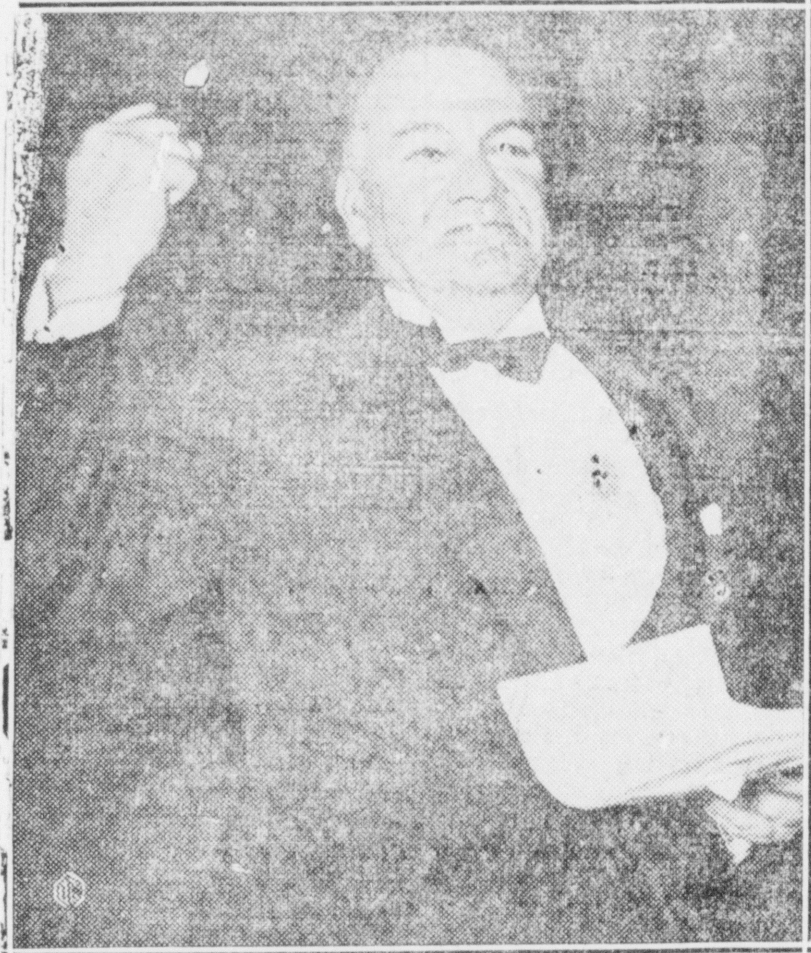

Santa had been out scouting, Checking up on girls and boys, And the Christmas presents needed In the line of gifts and toys. But every house he went to— In city, street or country lane, He found that big blue eagle Perched right on the window pane.

The bird did not look ferocious,

And the words, "we do our part." Led Santa into believing That this blue eagle had a heart. But when he learned the meaning Of those letters, N. R. A., Santa Claus was very angry And said he could not work that way. He grabbed that eagle by the neck, And made him fly away, With gifts to all good children On this coming Christmas day. So if you should see that eagle With a message on his bill, It will read—"A Merry Christmas To all men of good will."

"Cracks Down" on F. D. Attackers

Answering "chiselers, racketeers" and "bullion pundits" or "so-called captains of finance," who criticize the President's monetary policy with the assertion that "Roosevelt's dollar is the soundest dollar," General Hugh Johnson, NRA administrator, is shown in his famed "cracking down" pose as he addressed the National Manufacturers' Association at New York.

Prof. Diamond presented his subject in a neutral manner, although he plainly explained that at one time, discussion of the labor situation and unions in a public meeting, was like flirting with dynamite. Prof. Diamond gave his listeners an inside view of both sides of the union question and left it for them to decide which to follow.

The speaker said that the three outstanding aspects of "the new deal" so far as labor is concerned were the minimum wage, maximum hours, and the influence of 1933 legislation on the question of organized labor.

"Whether the way out of this depression is to increase the cost of doing business, depends entirely on whether the 'new deal' will be a success or not," Prof. Diamond declared. "The outcome remains to be seen. The idea of an increased cost of doing business is something entirely new in time of depression."

Prof. Diamond pointed out that the NRA has caused a revival of the organized labor movement.

"Unions lost heavily during the recent period of prosperity until the low mark in membership was 3,000,000 in this country, compared to over 25,000,000 at the present time."

Prof. Diamond said that in the past, labor unions have not been drilled in co-operation but have been in war tactics. Hacksters, he pointed out, have "muscle in" on union activities in recent years. He predicted a different type of union in America under the new deal, but left it entirely to his listeners, whether it was the proper procedure or not.

DANGEROUS LOOT

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo.—(INS)—Thieves who stole two guinea pigs and a rabbit from the grounds of a local hospital may expect unpleasant results if they eat them. Hospital authorities reporting the theft said the guinea pigs had been inoculated with tuberculosis bacilli and the rabbit was sick.

GOLD BROUGHT DEATH

SOFIA—(INS)—Finding a large gold nugget while he was "panning out" gold in the Vinday river near here, proved too much for a poor local prospector. Normally only a few grains filter through the home-made sieves, and when he saw the big lump he was seized with heart trouble, and died.

RABBITS ON LONG HOT

COLORADO SPRINGS, Colo.—(INS)—Four Colorado Springs rabbits recently started on a 6,000-mile trip. They were shipped to the experimental station of the Greek government at Serres, Greece, where they will be used in experiments designed to develop better breeding and meat stock.

HARRISBURG—(INS)—A total of 2,136,330 fish and frogs were distributed to Pennsylvania rivers during October, by the Fish and Game Commission.

Included were 60,199 brook and brown trout, 1,500 brown trout, 7,492 black bass, 5,603 pickerel, 145,375 minnows, 37,000 yellow perch, 1,144,650 bluegill sunfish, 363,765 bullhead catfish, and 421,900 bullfrog tadpoles.

MEAT, POTATOES and GRAVY

MANY a meal is built around these three standbys—meat, potatoes and gravy. Invariably they are the first dishes that come to your mind as you plan your dinner.

But in spite of their hunger-satisfying and nourishing qualities, this time-honored triumvirate can become monotonous unless it is supplemented by other dishes.

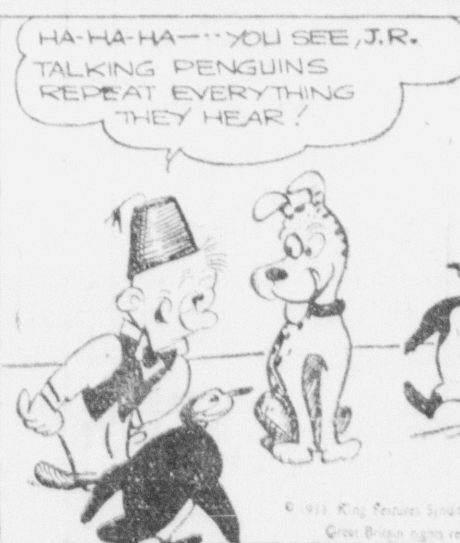

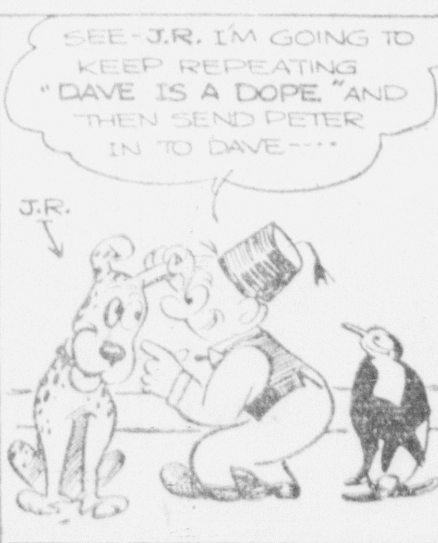

However, it is often a problem to find these "side dishes" in your own head. Of course you can quiz your neighbor, or ask the members of your family what they would like. But even this source of information is often lacking in ideas.

The thing to do is read the advertisements in your newspaper. Every day your local markets display their foodstuffs on those printed pages. You'll read of new vegetables and fruits that have "just arrived." Your appetite will be aroused by the tasty creations of national food manufacturers. With pencil and paper you can make your market list and menus before you step out of the house.

Speaking of monotony, consider this. There are 11 different cuts of beef, 9 cuts of veal, 7 of lamb, 10 of pork; there are at least 20 different breakfast cereals sold in every store, 16 different canned vegetables, 6 canned fruits, a dozen or more canned meats and fish, numberless varieties of cakes and crackers. Why should there be monotony in meals with such a variety of foods available at your store and so many of them advertised in your paper?

THIRD WARD TO TRY TO BREAK INTO WIN RANKS

The Third Ward A. C. will attempt to break into the win column of the Bristol Basketball League tonight when the downtown quintet clashes with the Hawks. In the second game of the night, the Paterson Parchment Paper Company will meet the Odd Fellows.

To date, the Warders have lost their three games played, by one point margins. The boys of George Herman have been fortunate this season and believe they are on the rebound of their early defeats. Tonight the Pickers will have their strongest lineup, with "Butch" DeBoskey and Jimmy Lake as forwards, Birchenoff at center, and McGinley and Lawler, guards. The Hawks trounced the St. Ann's A. A. last week and are out to repeat at the Third Ward's expense. The combination of Kendis, Fray, and Balmer looked good as this trio played together at Lebanon High School. Fray and Balmer are now attending Temple University.

The Odd Fellows, with a knack of springing surprises, may take over the Paterson Parchment team as the Oddies are improving with every contest. Reimer, the Black and White forward, now claims that he is in the pink of condition and out to score some high points. The Paterson team will use its same line-up.

Opening tap-off will take place at eight o'clock, sharp.

BOWLING SCORES

"A" League

Last night, No. 1 Fire Company took O'Boyle's Snowflake out of second place by winning 3 out of the 4 points in a closely played match. Allen had 511 for No. 1, and Yeagle 519 for O'Boyle's.

"B" League

In the "B" League, Gasoline Alley continued to forge ahead by taking all 4 points from Bristol Diner. In this match, Maurice Lunderbough showed the boys the way by rolling 501, with Markel hitting the pins for 410 for the Diners.

Wed After "Trial Honeymoon"

Maurice Hill, of Chicago, pictured with his vivacious bride, Fifi D'Orsay, French film actress, following their marriage at St. Vincent's Church, Hollywood. The ceremony was performed after the couple had been chaperoned on a "trial honeymoon," which apparently proved eminently successful.

After Barney's Title

By BURNLEY

BARNEY ROSS, lightweight champion of the world, is again menaced by the dynamite-patched fists of Tony Canzoneri, former titleholder. The broad-faced, olive-skinned Italian, who was first tutored by Pete Herman down in old New Orleans, is hot on the trail of Ross, following his sensational knockout of Kid Chocolate.

Tony looked great against the ebony-skinned Cuban that night. A terrific short right-hand chop to the whiskers dropped the brilliantly clever Kid to the resin floor for the first kayo of Chocolate's career. Canzoneri proved in that fight that he is not slipping. Always an in-and-out, he had one of his best nights against the little "chocolate drop"—and it was just too bad for the Kid.

Quite a number of those who saw the erstwhile boss of the lightweights crush the little Cuban that night would be willing to bet that Canzoneri can whip Barney Ross if given another crack at the titleholder. This, in spite of the fact that Ross already holds two hairline decisions over the moon-faced Italian puncher.

Tony is punching harder than ever before in his long and colorful career. Every punch that he sent whistling at Chocolate's head in their recent battle was loaded with dynamite. If one of those punches ever clips Ross squarely, the speedy Chicagoan will go down—make no mistake.

Tomorrow night at Madison Square Garden, New York, Signor Canzoneri is billed to collide with one Cleto Locatelli, who is called the lightweight champion of all Europe. Tony should experience little trouble with the foreign invader, and may even belt him out.

Meanwhile—Mister Ross, beware! That Tony is on the warpath again, and he wants his title back!

CAPTURE PORT SAOZEDIA

Buenos Aires, Dec. 14.—Paraguayan forces operating in the Chaco today captured Fort Saozedia, one of the chief Bolivian strongholds, according to word received here. The latest Paraguayan victory left Bolivia with only one important garrison, Fort Munoz. Position of the respective armies showed that Paraguayan forces now occupy Bolivian territory in some sections.

SEEK GIRL'S STRANGLER

New York City, Dec. 14.—An unidentified underworld figure, a reputed killer, said to have slipped through police fingers several times, today was sought as the slayer who wrapped an electrical cord around the throat of pretty raven-haired Margie Pilelsky, known to Broadway night spots as Marian Smith, and strangled her to death for fear she might make further revelations to police. For Margie, it was disclosed today, had been under police guard for the past ten months, as a material witness in connection with the year old murder of Joseph Mortillaro. Eleven days ago she was released from the Bronx county jail where she had been held under guard for fear underworld vengeance would be visited at her. The girl, police said, had been guarded because of some information she had given them concerning the slaying of Mortillaro. As a result of her declaration, George DePerno is now serving a 20-yr. life sentence and Irvin Leder is doing a five-year stretch in Sing Sing in connection with the same crime. Margie, who was a native of Shenandoah, Pennsylvania, was going to go back to her home, according to evidences found in her apartment.

GIVES THE BRANDS

The present high prices for liquor which are causing so much comment throughout the nation and which it is stated the Federal Government is determined to lower, are in striking comparison with those charged in Bucks County 35 years ago.

There was recently located in Doylestown a complete liquor journal kept by a distributor there 35 years ago. The journal was found on the third floor of the Lyons Building.

Starting with an investment of about $3400, the proprietors evidently conducted a flourishing business for several years.

"Old-timers," a few of whom are still living, are listed among the customers in this ledger. The first entry in the sales book was for "one quart of whiskey, $1.50," with no brand designated.

"Belle of Bucks," said to have been a good brand of whiskey, sold in those days for $12 a case, and it was possible to purchase two cases for $20. Three gallons of "Manhattan" cost another customer $11.25. A quart of
